INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE

Contested Access to Land in the Philippines and Indonesia

How Can the Rural Poor (Re)gain Control?

16–17 February 2015

GT-Toyota Asian Cultural Center, Asian Center, University of the Philippines Diliman

The current "global land grab" and other types of land investments that alienate poor land users from their land have gained much-needed attention in recent years. These land deals, which disempower the rural poor, are contested in various ways and degrees, and the aim of this international conference is to reflect critically on the complexities of these issues in order to better understand how the rural poor can (re)gain effective influence over the processes that affect their control over land.

Pre-registration ends 10 February: <http://calpi.up.edu.ph/>

No registration fee. For more details, please contact the conference secretariat: uptwsc@gmail.com
